

HUSBAND AND WIFE STOLE BOY'S PANTS AT POINT OF GUN

Forced Lad to Strip in Morrisville Railroad
Yards

THEN TOOK CLOTHES

Woman Wore the Pants in Order to Hop Freights
Easier

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 13.—Pleading guilty to a charge of robbery and being armed with an offensive weapon, larceny and receiving stolen goods—including the theft of a pair of pants taken from another at the point of a pistol—two Florida "crackers" were before Judge Calvin S. Boyer for sentencing yesterday in criminal court.

Eugene Washington, 30, and Delores, 19, both colored, and claiming to be man and wife, admitted that they held up George Richardson, fifteen, a runaway lad from Hartford, Conn., in the railroad yards at Morrisville. They stole all the boy's clothes, leaving him only one pair of "spare" pants that he wore under the outside pants. More than that they compelled him to strip, with the exception of the "spare" pair, right in the railroad yards, at the point of a pistol held by Eugene but carried by Delores.

On the witness stand Delores admitted taking part in the crime and shielded her husband by saying that it would not have been for her.
Eugene would never have thought of doing such a thing. They were looking for money, Delores admitted, but after finding none, thought they would use the clothing, and it was Delores who donned the stolen boy's clothes and not her husband.

Officer Andrew Thompson, of Morrisville, arrested the Washingtons who told Judge Boyer they were married in Florida "August coming a year ago."

Mrs. Washington told Judge Boyer that she wore the pants when hopping freights—"they are handier than a dress," she said.

Delores told the Court that she and her husband left Florida last May and "came up around Harrisburg and places." She said that she found the pistol wrapped in an old hat in the Morrisville railroad yards where "folks on the road hang out at night."
She admitted that she gave the Richardson boy some of her own clothes after she and her husband had stolen his.

Mrs. Washington said that she had an aunt in New York City.

Judge Boyer sentenced Eugene to pay a fine of $1 and costs and serve not less than eighteen months or more than three years in the Eastern State Penitentiary. Sentence upon Mrs.
Washington was deferred.

"I see just as much mixed up in the thing as he was," Delores remarked to the Court after her husband had been sentenced.

"Well, he is older and should have known better," Judge Boyer told her.
"We will defer sentence until we see what can be done with you."

Incidentally, Richardson, the boy robbed, was arrested and held as a material witness. He was committed to the Bucks County Detention Home, Doylestown, where he left the clothes that had been given him by the Wash-ingtons after they robbed him, stole some other clothes from the proprietress of the Detention Home and ran away. He was arrested in Allentown, where he is being held, awaiting the arrival of his parents from Connecticut.

William R. Williamson, of Fountain-ville, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Boyer to fourteen counts, charging violations of the laws dealing with the filing of reports and the payment of gasoline tax to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Sentence was suspended on payment of costs

TWO CONVICTS ESCAPE

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 13.—Binding up a fireman in the boiler room of the State Prison early this morning, two convicts, one a long-termer, escaped from the institution.

Prison deputies started out in search of the two men as soon as their absence was reported, and aid of the Trenton and State Police was asked.

The convicts who made their getaway are:

Jesse Beam, 27 years old, sentenced from Middlesex County to serve 1½ to 3 years for larceny and receiving stolen goods. He was received at the prison on February 9 last.

Claude Card, 44 years old, was sentenced in Atlantic County to 20 to 30 years for carnal abuse. He began serving his term on August 4.

The two convicts are declared to have told John Barka, a civilian fireman in the boiler house, which is located outside the prison walls on Third street, that there was something wrong in the cellar. He accompanied them there and the two men attacked him, took his clothing and keys, bound him with ropes to some equipment and opening a door made their way to the street.

Barka, following the escape of the pair at about 1 o'clock, managed to partly loosen his bonds and make his way to a telephone to give the alarm about an hour later.

A third convict, the only other person in the boiler house, had an opportunity to go with his fellow convicts but refused the chance.

As many guards as could be spared from the institution were immediately sent out on patrols to seek the fugitives and an alarm was broadcast.

9 the Finance Committee of the Chamresolution demanding postponement of the payment until after the war debts have been revised.

TREVOSE WOMAN MAKES ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE

Mrs. Joseph Decker Will Recover, Physicians
State

AT ABINGTON HOSPITAL

TREVOSE, Dec. 13.—Mrs. Frances Decker, Prospect avenue, attempted to take her own life yesterday, a gun being the weapon used.

At the time of the attempt the woman's husband, Joseph Decker, was at his employment as night watchman at the Reading Terminal, Philadelphia.

Frances, the daughter of the couple, is said to state that her mother went outside the house early in the morning and shot herself in the left side with a .32 calibre pistol, and then returned to bed.

The woman is said to have informed her daughter several minutes later what she had done, and told that she was in pain. She was removed to the Abington Hospital where it is stated she will recover.

In a note purported to have been left by Mrs. Decker for her husband, she said she didn't know why she was doing such a thing, and added that she was sorry. Mr. Decker told authorities that his wife was a victim of amnesia, to which he attributed her act.

State police of Morrisville barracks investigated.

Wanderwell Suspect Quizzed

William James Guy (left), held for questioning in the slaying of Captain Walter Wanderwell, on his yacht Carmine in Long Beach, Cal., is shown as he was quizzed by Lieutenant Owen Murphy at the Long Beach police headquarters. Guy admitted he had a grudge against the adventurer but asserted he was nowhere near the yacht when the crime was committed. He was a former associate of Wanderwell's on a previous South American expedition.

Mary's Cemetery, Doylestown.

Francis J. Holwood, Lahaska, aged father of Mrs. Anna Hennessey, 42, whose life was snuffed out in an early-morning blaze when her home was detinue Matthew Hennessey, Jr., 10-year-old son of the woman who met such a tragic death, is in Harriman Hospital, sister. As he bravely bears up under

A Message From Santa

(By Catherine Curran Smith)

The other night in dreamland
I turned on the radio.
And "tuned in" on the station
Of the land of ice and snow.
The entertainer proved to be Our hoary friend, Jack Frost.
Who surprised us by announcing That dear Santa Claus was cross.
It seems he was out scouting.
Checking up on girls and boys.
And the Christmas presents needed
In the line of gifts and toys.
His reindeer had grown tired.
So he soon drew up his sleigh,
And decided they would rest awhile
In good old Bristol, Pa.
He thought he'd roam around a bit.
To see what he could see.
When, who did he encounter,
But our Fire Chief, "Jim" McGee.
The latter spoke right up to him,
And made it very clear
That roller skates were dangerous
And were not wanted here.
And while these two were arguing,
Along came genial Dr. Fox.
And the accidents he spoke of Gave poor Santa quite a shock.
He then received fair warning
From Police Chief Linford Jones.
That if he left roller skates in Bristol
He would break up all his bones.
Santa bid all a "Merry Christmas"
As he climbed into his sleigh,
But what he learned in Bristol
Has filled him with dismay.
So he just sent out this message—
Says he is sorry to relate,
But on Christmas eve in Bristol
He will leave no roller skates.

GIFTS SUGGESTED RANGE FROM TOYS TO CLOTHING

One Mill Street Window With Flemish Copper Pieces
Is Most Attractive

WHERE YOU CAN BUY

By Gift Seeker
ONE of the most attractively decorated windows on Mill street, in my estimation, is that in the store of F. E.
Baylies, jeweler.

Flemish copper pieces, which "so charmingly reflect the craftsmanship of Old Flanders during the 16th Century," are the pieces displayed, and in themselves offer a gaiety of bright, shining color.

One offering includes four pieces: Small tray, tea pot, sugar bowl and cream pitcher. What an attractive gift, and one to be proud of!

When one thinks of shoes the thought of Moffo's Shoe Shop, three of which are located here, comes to mind.
At Moffo's Mill street store the young woman and the matron can find much to delight her heart. There footwear for all of the holiday occasions, wither it be sport shoes and galoshes for out-of-doors, or dainty slippers in suede or patent leather for the social function.

Games, games, games—that is what one is surrounded by when Norman's Stationery Store, Mill street, is entered. And among the puzzles and instructive, pleasure-giving games, are ping-pong (or table tennis) sets. The nets and their supports are sturdy, the balls are of celluloid, and the sets contain either two or four racquets, according to the desire.

Ever on the alert for the newest in "undies" and outer garments for the fastidious woman, Smith's Model Shop has much to offer. The gifts are the kind which will please, and which will be useful. My eye was attracted today by a pair of pink silk crepe pajamas. The neck, front and back, is V-shaped, and the only trim is a ruffle of the same material about one inch wide around either arm-hole.
They are, I truthfully say, quite chic.

Lamps have for years been in great demand, and each year the styles seem to grow prettier. Dries' Furniture Store, Mill and Pond streets, offers some exceptional values in floor, bridge, table, and smaller lamps this Yuletide. One that to me seems particularly nice is a large table lamp with a vase of tan, with trim of brown.
A handle adorns either side. The conical-shaped shade is done in tan and brown with a bit of red to finish off the color scheme.

RETURNS TO DUTY

Police Officer Phillips returned to duty last night after being off since October 13th. Officer Phillips was struck by an automobile at Mill street and the Highway, October 13th, and sustained a severely strained knee.

May Be Governor

Mrs. Jean Springstead Whittemore, Democratic National Committeewoman for Porto Rico, who has been mentioned as a likely candidate for appointment as Governor of Porto Rico. This is the first time a woman has been considered for such a post. Mrs. Whittemore, a native of Kansas, has been in Porto Rico for 20 years. She was active in the campaigns of Alfred E. Smith and President-elect Franklin D.
Roosevelt.

RANSACK HOUSE OF VALUABLES, JEWELRY

Robbers Break Open Chests and Closets in Search of Premises

TAKE RINGS, WATCHES

Robbers forced their way into the residence of David Mathias, Beaver street, outside the borough limits, sometime yesterday and not only wrecked the contents but took jewelry and various other articles, yet to be inventoried.

The Mathias family, just recently moved here, from Passaic, N. J., and were away at the time and upon their return found the house in a terrible condition. Entrance had been gained through a cellar window.

Mr. Mathias is employed with the Paterson Parchment Paper Co.

The robbers, once inside the house, did not neglect to search it thoroughly for valuables. They broke open chests, chests and drawers. They threw that which they did not want at random about the house. They even tried to enter the garage but did not succeed.

Among the articles taken are two gold watches, gold chain and gold pen-knife, women's and men's gold rings.

State police and Chief Linford J.
Jones are investigating.

Santa Arrives Here To Do Christmas Buying

Santa arrived in Bristol last night to do his Christmas shopping. He was accompanied by plenty of music and greeted by a large crowd of youngsters. The kiddies ran into the street to grasp his hand and make known their wants. They all had a separate story to tell him.

Santa arrived at the home of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion and he headed the Cadet Corps and the Bugle Corps down Radcliffe street and along Mill street.

L. C. Wetling turned on the Christmas lights which now decorate the street and the shopping district took on a seasonable atmosphere.

ENGLAND RENEWS DEMANDS

London, Eng., Dec. 13.—The British Government reiterated its demand that the United States accept conditional payment of the December 15th war debt installment in a new note made public today.

The note, which was made public while the British Cabinet was in session, the latest development in the lightning diplomacy that has characterized the American-British war debt negotiations since Sunday.

It stated in no uncertain terms that the British Government had reached its decision after mature consideration.

The text of the brief communication which was delivered to Secretary of State Stimson last night before the Cabinet had a chance to approve it, follows:

"In reply to the United States Government's note of December 11th, His Majesty's Government desires to emphasize the purpose of their note of even date was to state clearly their own position in regard to the payment of December 15th, and to explain the circumstances under which they had decided to make the payment."

BOTTLE EXPLODES: FINGERS CUT

In a peculiar accident last evening Mrs. Fred Gould, Edgely, had the third and fourth fingers of her left hand split, one stitch being required in the little finger. Bottles of soft drinks had been placed on dry ice at the card party of Lily Rebeckah Lodge. One bottle burst, and as Mrs. Gould reached for the second bottle it exploded in her hand, causing the painful cuts.

COUNCIL REJECTS ALL 14 ASH BIDS AFTER TIE VOTE

Split Evenly on the Recommendation of Street
Committee

TO CHANGE ORDINANCE

Believe Longer Period Would Be Fairer to The Contractor

A councilmanic tie vote last night delayed awarding the contract for collection of ashes and rubbish and it was announced that council will discuss with the borough solicitor changing the ordinance, which now governs this borough activity.

Seventeen persons submitted bids to collect the ashes and rubbish of the borough for the year 1933. They ranged from $3,536 to $2,775, or a difference of $861, between the highest and lowest bid. The present contract price is $3,636.

The highest bidder was C. Weber & Sons, the present holders of the contract, who has proven to be very satisfactory.

The lowest bidder was Adolph Paci, 814 Pine street.

Jacob C. Schmidt, chairman of street and highway committee, informed council of the bids received and said his committee recommended awarding the contract to the lowest bidder.

R. T. Myers, third ward, objected, stating the present collector had given good service and according to his own statement had only made $14 a week out of the contract. "I believe our borough ordinance is wrong in that it only gives this contract for a one year period. It should be for two years. After a man has purchased his equipment, one year is not a long enough period."

Roy Fry, fifth ward, asked that the advertisement which was inserted in the press requesting bids, be read, so as to give the councilmen information as to whether they could reject all bids. The notice was read and it was found that the committee requesting bids reserves the right to reject any or all bids submitted.

William Warner, second ward, asked to have all bids read, which was done by Mr. Schmidt.

Mr. Myers again taking the floor said that he did not believe the borough wanted any man to work for nothing.

President of Council Dr. J. Fred Wagner informed council the street and highway committee had recommended awarding the contract to the lowest bidder and that it was upon this that council was asked to vote.

Mr. Schmidt put the recommendation of the committee in the form of a motion, but no one seconded it until President Wagner asked if someone would not second the motion. Mr.
Myers, then arising, told council that as a member of the committee which had made the recommendation, he would second the motion.

There were 14 members of council present and they split evenly upon the recommendation of the committee.
Armand V. Morris informed council that he failed to see how council could do other than award the contract to the lowest bidder.

The tie vote upon the recommendation of the committee left the action undecided and council was at an impasse.

Picture at Grand Filled With Rogers' Philosophy

The simple virtues and homely philosophy of real Americans are extolled by Will Rogers in "Too Busy To Work," a touching drama of everyday people which, with Will Rogers in the title role, had its premiere at the Grand Theatre last night, and will be shown again tonight.

The popular and beloved comedian was never so keen of wit and so razor-edged in repartee as he is in his latest Fox picture. Nor has he ever before demonstrated such exceptional emotional qualities. The distinguished exponent of homespun philosophy portrays the role of a whimsical tramp, whose chief aim in life is to find his wife and daughter and the man who stole them from him.

This takes him from place to place, until he discovers that his wife has died and that his daughter is living under the roof of his enemy. When he finds them, he does not resort to the conventional method of handling the situation. His tolerance and love dictate an entirely different course, influenced, no doubt, by the fact that the girl is enjoying a romance with the son of the man who stole her.

Marian Nixon, one of the most popular leading women of the screen, portrays the role of Rogers' daughter to whom he never reveals himself. She is both sweet and sympathetic in her characterization, particularly in her scenes with Rogers.

Dick Powell, last seen in "Blessed Event," in which he made his screen debut, shares the love interest with Miss Nixon and gives a good account of himself.

Kay Francis and William Powell will appear tomorrow evening in "One-Way Passage."

RETURN OF BARTER

"Ethical dental services exchanged for lady's fur coat."

This offer appearing among the "public notices" in a metropolitan newspaper ought to be proof enough for anybody that the depression has taken the country back to barter and exchange, a method of distributing the world's goods and man's labor antedating the days of horse trading.

The dentist possesses skill and facilities and his wife needs or covets a fur coat. Somewhere in the same city there is a woman with a toothache and fur coat and no money, or there is a fur merchant with dental troubles in his home and no buyers of his coats or no cash to pay off employees who need dental care.

In one of the current movies the heroine saves her bank and brings prosperity back to her town by inducing everyone to exchange what they have for what they need.

His depression problems as well as some of those of his customers were solved by a young merchant in rural Pennsylvania by loading his delivery trucks with the goods his farm and mountaineer patrons need and exchanging them for their surplus produce which he trades or sells. His new store building is depression built.

Back to barter and exchange! It may not be as dignified and simple as trading through the medium of currency but it is ethical, or will be if all the old horse-traders are dead.

A MARKET FOR APPLES

That the United States and its products are more than a little dependent on foreign markets has just been demonstrated by the reopening of the Argentine to American apples.

For several years the apple industry, the principal source of income for several large sections in a number of states, has felt the full force of the depression and tariff war. Deprived of both foreign and domestic markets, the apple growers and packers fell upon dark days. Thousands of bushels of apples have been virtually given away, or thrown to the hogs, during the last three years, and even that has not prevented a post-season surplus.

Through the lifting of the ban on apple imports in the Argentine, American fruit men expect to dispose of thousands of carloads of surplus apples this year at profitable prices. For them this change of government policy in South America promises good times again.

It is well enough for America to strive after complete economic independence, but until it has attained that end it cannot afford to miss a single opportunity to create or find new foreign markets. It is a good time for dragging buyers in from the sidewalks.

Smoking less may rest your nerves, but it doesn't work in the case of factory chimneys.

Usually you can estimate a man's authority by the relative idiocy of his plan to save the country.

The final proof of democracy's worth is the way Americans stand in line awaiting their fair turn.

The Sunday morning collection indicates that the building of missions in the skies is cheaper now.

THREE ESCAPE JAIL

CLOVIS, N. M.—The first jail delivery in eight years recently freed three prisoners in the Curry county jail here. They knocked a hole through a brick and concrete wall and sawed two bars to gain their freedom.

SYNOPSIS

Dr. John Wolfe, old Dr. Montague Threadgold's assistant, is stunned at the unsanitary conditions he finds in the smug little town of Navestock. Wolfe realizes his greatest fight in ridding the town of pollution will be in overcoming the resentful attitude of the people themselves who seem perfectly satisfied with their mode of living. He encounters his first obstacle in the person of Jasper Turrell, the brewer, who objects to Wolfe taking a sample of his well water for analysis. Undaunted by opposition, Wolfe continues his researches and prepares a map of the town's unsanitary areas. The one bright spot in Navestock is the home of Mrs. Mary Mascall where Wolfe is always sure of a welcome. He is exceptionally fond of Mrs. Mascall's young daughter, Jess. Wolfe is summoned to the home of elderly Miss Perfrement, who feigns heart attacks to attract attention. She is annoyed when Wolfe does not humor her and tells her there is no cause for alarm. Later, Dr. Threadgold insists that Wolfe be more tactful. Wolfe realizes it is to Threadgold's financial benefit to humor the lady. The blundering old man cautions Wolfe against using so much "expensive" medicines when the "ordinary" preparations will do. Wolfe's disgust with the abounding ignorance reaches its peak when he finds three babies in the care of Mrs. Lucy Gallop drugged from a "cordial" given as a pacifier. He censures Hubbard, the chemist, for selling it. Hubbard complains to old Threadgold who criticizes Wolfe. Later, Wolfe meets Jess coming from school.

"Pimley's a snob. You should see her with those Dudeney girls," said Jess.

you know; wretched stuff—Macaulay and Cowper, and all that. She put me on to read to-day, and we fell out over a word."

"One little word!"

"It was like this. Mother always says 'crownation' for coronation. It's her way, and it's as good as any other way. So I read 'crownation,' just to see what Pimley would say."

"'Cor-o-na-tion, Miss Ma—all; only vulgar people say crowna-on.'"

"That made me cross, because Mother says it, and she isn't vulgar."

"I said, 'My mother calls it crownation.'"

"She said, 'No person of education pronounces the word so.'"

Wolfe's eyes glimmered.

"That was tactless. And you?"

"I got up, and put my books away, and I said, 'Miss Pimley, my mother is not a person, and she pays your fees.'"

"Then there was that thunder-storm."

"Pimley spluttered. Do you know people who splutter? She said, 'Miss Jessica Mascall—' but I got in first."

"One from the shoulder?"

"I said, 'Miss Pimley, I have no further need of your services. Good afternoon.'"

"I say, that was good!"

"Wasn't it! I haven't felt so well this year."

She looked it, too, with a gleam of audacity in her eyes, fine frank eyes that made some of her more sentimental school-fellows foresee for her all manner of romances.

Little Rose Steyning, who scribbled verses in old sermon books of her father's, would hold to Jess and utter admiringly: "Jess has such wonderful eyes." And they were the more wonderful because Jess Mascall made no cunning use of them.

She broke out into impetuous confidences.

"Old people are always talking to young people about manners, but why should we say nothing when old people are rude to us?"

Does being very old make us important, and able to say the nastiest thing that we please? I like to take people like I take dogs and horses. I'm not afraid of them, and that's everything."

Wolfe looked at her thoughtfully.

"Most of us—when we grow up—are so shy and so afraid of staring too hard at someone else's and they are trying to smooth this hard spot. But "Bill" misses the family.

The two boys managed to make their way out of the house after they had been aroused yesterday a few minutes before four o'clock. The younger one was sleeping downstairs as were his mother and sister. The older one, upstairs, made his way out the window, onto the roof of the one-story annex, and then was helped down by men who had arrived at the scene. The mother whom firemen desperately attempted to rescue, was not found until about 5.30, her blackened body lying at the foot of the stairs leading to the second floor. The small body of Alice in the little crib was not found until 6.30. Bodies are now at a local morgue.

 and condition that the defendant pay the amount due the state within six months.

After both sides had agreed on statements of fact in the case of Commonwealth against Burth L. Shontz and John L. Page, of Wrightstown, charged with distributing liquid fuel without permit, a jury brought in a verdict of guilty and counsel for the defendants filed an application for a new trial, stating that the case would be carried into the higher courts if necessary on a question of law to make it a "test case." Another bill against Shontz, charging selling liquid fuel other than that indicated on pump, was quashed by Judge Boyer. Six counts against James A. Grant, charging violation of the gasoline laws, were also quashed.

Counsel for one of the defendants, in addressing the Court before sentence was pronounced, declared that in his opinion the legislation in reference to the collection of gasoline tax money by dealers, as was the law several years ago, was ill-advised. It is apparent, the attorney argued, that the Legislature believed it to be poor legislation for they have since changed it. It is not good policy to make private tax collectors out of business people, the attorney further stated.

Four counts against Alvin Albrecht on similar gasoline law violations, were quashed yesterday.

Gabriel Drzewicki, of Philadelphia, was acquitted yesterday of a charge of failure to stop and render assistance, but was directed to pay the costs.

Instructed to render a verdict of not guilty by Judge Hiram H. Keller, a jury in the second week of criminal court, acquitted Fred Mari, of Philadelphia, charged with false pretense. The costs were placed on the defendant.

Mari, who did not take the stand, was alleged to have misrepresented himself as a person in authority at a picnic held near Trevoise.

The defendant, it was stated, disposed of ice cream amounting to $135. "At no time did he say he was in charge, but he gave us that impression," testified Mrs. Blanche McLaughlin, one of the members of the committee in charge of the event which was an outing for a Philadelphia children's society.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

OYSTERS A LA RECTOR

TO MY mind George Rector is America's foremost authority of the preparation of sea food. Rector's restaurants in New York and Chicago had a reputation among epicures for many of their specialties but the outstanding dishes were those made from Oysters or Fish.

Rector's was the first restaurant to introduce Oysters in Chicago. George told me about the excitement that prevailed when the first barrel of Oysters "reposing in their own mother of pearl thrones" arrived in his restaurant. A group of outstanding epicures had gathered in honor of the occasion. There was a hushed silence as the first Oyster was opened. And when it was found that the bivalve had successfully survived the trip, great hurrahs arose from the assembled guests.

Mr. Rector has given me a few of his best Oyster recipes.

Oyster Cocktail

Serve 6 oysters on the half shell to each portion. Arrange them on a bed of finely chopped ice. Garnish each plate with a sprig of parsley and a piece of lemon.

Cocktail Sauce

1/2 cup tomato catsup	2 tablespoons strained lemon juice
1/4 cup grated horseradish	10 drops tabasco sauce
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce	1/4 teaspoon salt

Mix ingredients together and serve in small cocktail glasses.

Oyster Stew

Allow 8 medium sized oysters for each portion. Place them in a small saucepan with 1/2 cup strained oyster liquor. Season with salt and a pinch of cayenne, and bring to a quick boil. Boil 1 minute. Skim top and add 1 cup hot milk and 1/2 cup cream. Bring to a boil, remove from fire, add 1 tablespoon fresh butter and pour it into a soup tureen. Sprinkle top with paprika and serve with oyster crackers.

Fried Oysters a la Rector

Allow 6 or 8 medium sized oysters for each portion. Drain, reserve liquor, season with salt and a few grains of cayenne. Roll in cracker meal and dip in egg beaten with 2 tablespoons strained oyster liquor, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire and 1/2 teaspoon English mustard. Then roll in bread crumbs mixed with an equal quantity of finely shredded crabmeat. Fry in clarified butter until nicely browned. Arrange on a hot platter and garnish with parsley and quartered lemon.

SPORTS

NATIONAL LEAGUE WILL CONVEENE TODAY

By Davis J. Walsh
(J. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(INS)—Baseball's gravest and most rabid set of meetings in almost 20 years will begin with the annual sodality and brotherhood reunion of the National League today, at which time they will decide what steps may be needed to save baseball from itself or, whether, after all, it wouldn't be cheaper just to walk away and leave it. According to all indications, one has to go back to another generation and the Federal League upstart to find baseball confronted by a situation of equal urgency and consequence.

The go-getters will be up in arms, demanding player limits, salary limits, shorter training seasons and the banishment of broadcasters from Major League press boxes. Even the still-stillers are liable to become a little violent when they learn that one of the strongest clubs in baseball lost $200,000 last year and that another finished behind a deficit of $185,000. The magnates are resolute men who are in baseball because of their great devotion to outdoor sports or something and some of them can even lose the sum of $5.92 with a very brave smile. So naturally something very acute must be done about the situation.

Overnight, the Giants, Phillies and Pirates have engaged in a triangular trade, with the Pirates getting Lindstrom, the Giants Glenn Spencer and George Davis and the Phillies, Gus Dugas, Chick Fullis and some thousands of dollars. This is the first of several deals that seem certain to come true at the meetings, everybody being of a mind to do business on one basis or another, owing to the fact that they cannot go far wrong. They haven't anything, so they can't lose much, and before they get through, they're liable to wind up with a pretty complete shifting of identities, just for the sake of trying something new. However, the business of the meetings will be largely administrative, rather than sales and distribution. The boys went for everything except the Sunday suit last year. They must trim operating expenses or make ready for the sheriff.

Salaries, of course, will receive a major slash. Everybody, except the ranking names of the profession, will be down to $10,000 as a maximum and perhaps $3,500 as a minimum. All luxuries are to be thrown away without a second look. There will be very few coaches of pitchers next season. There even will be very few pitchers without the coaches, since the pressure is on to reduce the player-limit to 22 men, with the coach, or to 23 men, without the coach. Either way, it will mean that the coach will have to be a pretty fair country ball player in his own right or, conversely, he won't be a coach at all.

Either way, too, baseball seems to be overlooking the fact that, if you want their money nowadays, you must give them more, not less. In fact, the safest way is to offer a great deal more for a great deal less . . . and hope fervently for the best.

Young Women To Sponsor Card Party Here Tonight

The Misses Bess McGinley, Gertrude Murphy, Eleanor Keating, Frances Blanche and Margaret Fox, compose the dance committee, who will sponsor a card party this evening in the K. of C. home.

More than 60 varied prizes will be displayed for contestants in bridge, pinochle and "500." Playing will begin at nine.

GREAT BRITAIN WANTS REVISION

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—Great Britain's decision to pay her war debt installment on Thursday after they attached to it a rider to the effect that the whole debt structure must be revised, was greeted with satisfaction here today. It is understood the new note from France now enroute takes a similar position, thus cementing the Anglo-French allies on the issue.

In the latest demand note re-examination of the whole debt question was recommended to be undertaken without loss of time. There is nothing which the Hoover administration can do in this regard except to lay the debtors' request before the Lame Duck Congress. This Congress has only ten weeks to live and there is little disposition to have it attempt anything on the debt question. Sentiment is general the whole problem should be allowed to go over into the new Roosevelt administration when it comes into power on March 4th next.

WOMEN TO PRAY FOR WOMAN

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 13.—Women of South Carolina—rich and poor—society leaders and mill workers, will join in their prayers in the case of Mrs. B. Ferguson Snipes, expectant mother, that she shall not be put to death in the electric chair. This was revealed today by W. M. Easterling, prominent Columbia attorney and former state legislator, who drew up a petition of clemency to be signed by hundreds of women. Mrs. Snipes was convicted of slaying a policeman. She faces execution April 7th, three months after she is to give birth to a child.

Y. M. A. WINS OUT AFTER TOUGH TUSSELE

For three quarters the Bristol Hawks gave the league-leading Y. M. A. team a tough tussle in a Bristol Basketball League contest played on the Italian Mutual Aid court last night, but the two sharp-shooters, "Reds" Bailey and "Toby" Lawrence found their eye and the end of the game found the score 44-31 in the Y. M. A.'s favor.

Although the Y. M. A.'s scoring combination of Lawrence and Bailey netted thirty-five points between them, the spotlight was on "Henny" Morgan, flashy forward of the Hawks' five. Morgan's shooting and brilliant floor-work kept the Hawks in the fight.

He hit the cords for six double-deckers and sunk in seven out of ten tries for foul goals, a total of nineteen points. His passing and floorwork accounted for four of the other six field goals, made by his teammates.

At the first quarter whistle, the Hawks held a 13-9 edge. At half-time, the Y. M. A. stepped into a 24-16 lead. Three quarters of the way found the Y. M. A., 36; Hawks, 26.

Seventeen points by Harry Kendig and twelve by "Eddie" Dugan, enabled the Third Ward quintet to chalk up their second victory of the season. The Warders were victorious over the Paterson Parchment Paper Company, 46-30.

The game was featured by a third session rally by the Paper Mill team. At half time, the Pipers held a 19-8 lead. The spurt of the Paper Makers brought their score to twenty-four while the Warders scored ten points to bring their number to twenty-nine. The last period found a different story and a walk-away for the Third Ward Club.

"Porky" Earl led the Paterson team in defeat with eleven points. The Third Ward team scored eighteen times from the field and ten times from the foul mark. The losers scored twelve times from the foul line in twenty-one tries and netted nine double-deckers.

GAME TONIGHT

Tonight on the Hibernians' floor, the Gaels will meet the Celtics and the Shamrocks will play the Columbians in A. O. H. League contests.

By MAXWELL J.
GORDON

MANY of the followers of the Bristol basketball league that played in the old Bristol Theatre about 12 years ago . . . will be sorry to hear that Paul "Panley" Sutton who played with the Hibernian team at that time . . . was killed in an automobile accident in New Brunswick, N. J., on Election Night. . . Sutton was a star basketball player in the Jersey town, playing with the Knights of Columbus five in the K. of C. State League. . . While playing here he co-starred with Jim Roche, Neal Dugan, Earl Harkins and Dan "Plooky" Dugan. . . His sudden death comes as a sad blow to his many friends and relatives here, whom he visited quite frequently.

A deviation from our usual sports chatter:

Too good to keep . . . A well known professional man who travels daily between Bristol and Philadelphia on the P. R. R. . . boarded the 5:03 at Broad street the other night . . . and as was his custom looked around the car and noted the usual crowd of Bristolians who travel on the same train were in their accustomed places. . . He then made himself comfortable and proceeded to take a nap. . . feeling safe to do so with no danger of being carried beyond his destination with so many friends surrounding him . . . deep in the arms of Morpheus, our friend was enjoying a good sleep . . . when suddenly he heard someone whistling outside the car window. . . In his sub-conscious mind he was sure one of his traveling companions was trying to wake him while standing on the platform. . . He immediately jumped up grabbed his coat and hat and rushed down the aisle while the train was slowly leaving the station. . . Brushing the conductor aside he jumped from the moving train onto the platform. . . He then looked around for his friend, the whistler . . . but to his amazement found the station deserted. . . Nothing looked familiar, few lights and a dreary scene. . . On closer inspection he found that he was in Torresdale with the next train not due to stop for another hour. . . The mile walk from the station to the bus terminal did not add joy to his ruffled state of mind.

grades, who answered the call for basketball candidates, to build up a team which will again capture the Lower Bucks County League title.

The week's practice consisted of drills in passing, shooting and pivoting. The squad was divided into teams which had a five-minute scrimmage each. The squad will be cut and 25 men will make up both the Varsity and Jay Vee squads. The result will be posted today.

The full schedule has, as yet, not been made, but the first game played by the Cardinal and Gray fives will most likely be a practice game with Northeast Catholic High.

There were 12 spectators in the seats reserved for the public and these were requested to leave the room so that council could go into caucus upon the matter. After a 15-minute period the spectators were invited to return to the room and President Wagner stated from the rostrum, that it had been decided to reject all bids for the present time. He asked Mr. Weber if he would continue the work until such time as council decided to award the contract after consulting with the borough solicitor on a change in the ordinance. He said he thought a new contract would be ready about March 1st. Weber agreed.

President Wagner stated that council thought in fairness to all contractors that the contract should be made for a longer period of time than one year.

Routine affairs of council consisted in the appointment of Dr. H. Doyle Webb as a member of the board of health for a period of five years. Approval of the bond of Louis B.

Girton, tax collector, in the sum of $10,000, with Joseph R. Grundy and Walter F. Leedom as surety, was given.

Approval of the plumber's bond of B. Laurie was given. John F. Wear is the surety.

Police committee reported 10 arrests made during November, with the following disposition of the cases:

Fined, 1; held for court, 2; discharged, 5; committed, 1; turned over to state police, 1. One hundred lodgers were given shelter, two doors found open, nine incandescent and three arc lights reported out and one bridge light.

Councilmen present were: Wagner, Winter, Williams, Warner, Morris, Schmidt, Myers, Vandegrift, Winslow, Spezzano, Fry, Pfeifer, Spencer, Littleton.
